The Army Suddenly, and Chaotically, Told Hundreds of Soldiers They Have to Be Recruiters Immediately

Without warning, hundreds of noncommissioned officers were ordered via email to report to the recruiting school at Fort Knox, Kentucky, in less than a week, with hundreds more set to start at the school in December -- a sudden unexpected move by the Army as the service scrambles to boost its recruiting force by 800 by the end of the year.

The orders came after a breakdown in how the Army tracks how many recruiters it has coming through the pipeline along with retention of existing ones, according to Lt. Gen. Douglas Stitt, the Army's top personnel officer. The sudden depletion of recruiters caught Army planners flat-footed, with officials unable to provide a clear explanation as to what went wrong. Now, NCOs will likely have to move during the holiday season and in the middle of the school year, sowing chaos for families.

The Army has roughly 10,000 recruiters, but that force has been bleeding troops over the past year. The 800 emergency recruiting students will allow the service to maintain its numbers. Recruiters have reported to Military.com in recent months of working longer hours and, in some cases, getting fired for missing quotas.

South Korean Intelligence Says Kim Jong Un Supplied Russia With One Million Artillery Shells

South Korea's main intelligence agency has issued a new warning alleging that North Korea is ramping up artillery supplies to Russia, after Kim Jong-Un's somewhat lengthy trip to Russia's east which took place in September.

South Korea's National Intelligence Service (NIS) told lawmakers that Pyongyang has sent over one million artillery shells for use in Ukraine. Washington too has long voiced suspicions that the north is arming Russia's military on a large-scale.

Republicans Raise Terror Alarm After Illegal Immigrants Caught With Explosive Devices

Republicans are raising the alarm over a possible terror threat to the country after Border Patrol agents caught illegal border crossers carrying explosives.

Republican senators have sounded the alarm on the Biden administration's border policies after Border Patrol agents caught illegal border crossers who were carrying explosive devices that Sen. John Barrasso (R-Wyo.) said were "tailor-made for terrorism."

Mr. Barrasso, who is the Senate Republican Conference Chairman, made the startling revelation at a press conference on Oct. 31, alongside Sens. John Cornyn (R-Texas), Ted Cruz (R-Texas), and Pete Ricketts (R-Neb.), following their recent visit to the U.S.–Mexico border.

The senators said that over 8 million illegal border crossings have taken place under President Joe Biden's watch, while asserting that explosive devices found on some border crossers in recent days represent an elevated risk of terror acts against the homeland.

"We have just returned from our southern border, and it is painfully clear that with Joe Biden's open border policy, our country is really at an increased threat for a terrorist attack," Mr. Barrasso said at Tuesday's press conference. Several days ago, U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) agents seized illegal immigrants carrying with them improvised explosive devices that Mr. Barrasso said were the "size of cannonballs" and were "tailor-made for terrorism."

Speaking at the press conference, Mr. Ricketts said that, due to what he said were President Biden's "failed" border policies, there were 18 people on the terrorist watchlist caught entering the United States illegally in September—and 172 last year.

“To put this in perspective, in years past, that number was single digits,” Mr. Ricketts said.

“We’re opening ourselves up for a terrorist attack.”

An elevated terror threat against the United States and its citizens has also been flagged by FBI Director Christopher Wray, who issued a stark warning while testifying before Congress on Oct. 31.

Mr. Wray told lawmakers that, since the Oct. 7 attack by the Hamas terror group against Israeli civilians and soldiers, there have been multiple foreign terrorist organizations calling for attacks against Americans and the West, significantly raising the threat posed by what he described as “homegrown extremists.”

Pentagon pursuing nuclear bomb 24 times more powerful than one dropped during WWII

The Defense Department announced on Friday that it is pursuing the development of a nuclear bomb that is 24 times more powerful than one from World War II.

According to a Pentagon press release, the military working toward a modern variant of the B61 nuclear gravity bomb, called the B61-13, but the initiative is awaiting congressional authorization and appropriation.

Biden Sends War Powers Notification to Congress - Are We Headed Into Something Big?

Sometimes reality bites so hard that not even Democrats can ignore it.

President Joe Biden — a man who’s prostituted his presidency to revive a disastrous nuclear deal with the Islamic Republic of Iran — has formally notified Congress that he has committed American military force against terror groups funded and trained by that same republic.

And now Americans are expected to trust that he knows what he's doing?

On Friday, as The Washington Times reported, Biden wrote to Republican House Speaker Mike Johnson and Democratic Senate President Pro Tempore Patty Murray to fulfill the requirements of the War Powers Act that mandates presidents consult congressional leaders on military action.

In the letter, Biden explicitly named Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps as being the mastermind behind attacks against U.S. military forces in Iraq and Syria.

The Global War on the Jews

Anti-Semitism surges, even in the West, which shows why Israel exists.

The disturbing fact of the past month is that Jews are under attack not only in Israel and not only by Hamas. The weeks since the barbaric Oct. 7 Hamas invasion of Israel have witnessed physical assaults on Jews the world over, including in the U.S. and Europe. This most modern of pogroms—global, televised, politicized—demonstrates exactly what is at stake as Israel ramps up its defensive war against Hamas in Gaza.

The Islamist group and its Western enablers are pursuing or justifying a genocidal war against Jews, not merely a territorial dispute with Israel. And since Western governments too often seem unable to protect the Jewish minorities in their midst, Israel must defend itself as the only safe home for the Jewish people.

This weekend hundreds of rioters in Dagestan, Russia, stormed an airport in search of Jewish travelers. Mobs raided hotels in other parts of the North Caucasus looking for Jews, and a Jewish community center under construction in the city of Nalchik was the target of an apparent attack.

Germany has witnessed a spate of anti-Semitic incidents, including an attack with Molotov cocktails against a synagogue in Berlin on Oct. 18. Some Jews found Stars of David painted on their homes, an echo of the Nazi persecution. German politicians have been forceful in their denunciations, but apparently not forceful enough in their policing.

Two Jewish schools in London closed for a period over safety concerns, and some British Jews no longer feel safe wearing visible symbols of their faith. They're probably right to worry the state can't protect them. Tens of thousands of protesters in London over three successive weekends called for "jihad" and chanted "from the river to the sea," a demand for the erasure of Israel and by extension its citizens. A crowd in Sydney, Australia, chanted "gas the Jews" after the Hamas attack.

Americans like to believe such things couldn't happen in the U.S. They have. The Anti-Defamation League last week reported a 388% increase in anti-Semitic incidents from Oct. 7-23 compared with the same period a year ago. The 312 incidents the ADL recorded include a car carrying individuals with Palestinian flags allegedly swerving toward a Jewish family and several alleged assaults by pro-Palestinian protesters. The ADL tally counts 109 anti-Israel rallies that featured support for Hamas or violence against Jews in Israel.

These and too many other incidents to count put paid to the notion that one can distinguish anti-Zionism from anti-Semitism since Oct. 7. If protesters wanted to burn Israeli flags in a fit of wrong-headed pique about a two-state solution, that is one thing. Only anti-Jewish hate can explain how synagogues, children and airports are targets of this outrage.

Yet many Western intellectuals—and a growing number of politicians—insist on maintaining this false distinction. They've seen what Hamas has done to innocent Israeli civilians, and what pro-Hamas protesters have said and done in Western streets. They'd nonetheless forgive any violence by Hamas or Hezbollah against Jews as anticolonial defiance.

Today's threats to democracy are different, but one lesson is the same and is crystal-clear: A Western society that can't or won't muster the will to defend its Jewish neighbors and fellow citizens won't be able to defend itself.

Salon advances claim that 'MAGA and Christian nationalism' constitute greater threats than Hamas 'could ever be'

Salon was unable to wait a full week after Hamas terrorists massacred thousands of Israelis and slaughtered at least 33 Americans before reminding its readership that Christian Republicans were the real threat to focus on. The leftist blog published an unhinged polemic from former White House correspondent Brian Karem on Oct. 12, suggesting that the Republican Party and Hamas are "both terrorist groups — it's just a matter of degree."

With venom to spare, Karem doubled down in a similar piece Thursday, suggesting that "MAGA and Christian nationalism" together constitute a greater threat to America than "Hamas could ever be."

In his latest piece for Salon, the leftist blogger unwittingly credited House Speaker Mike Johnson with not mistaking the American constitutional republic for a democracy, but proceeded to claim that Johnson and people like him intended to transform the country into a Christian theocracy untroubled by foreign entanglements.

"They want an isolationist country surrounded by walls and dedicated to the proposition that the First Amendment guarantees them the right to worship any way they want — while forcing the rest of us to worship the way they choose," wrote Karem. "The House of Representatives, now run by Johnson, offers a discount version of the apocalyptic orgasm the holy rollers have dreamed of for years. They've renewed the Inquisition and seem determined to convert the U.S. into a theocracy run by people who will thump you with the Bible, but haven't read much of it."

READ MORE: Fauci warns he has nightmares about 'next inevitable pandemic'

US taxpayer money was used to experiment with coronaviruses from the Chinese lab thought to be the source of the Covid pandemic more than a year before the global outbreak, an investigation has found.

The National Institutes of Health (NIH), under Dr Anthony Fauci's leadership, infected 12 Egyptian fruit bats with a 'SARS-like' virus called WIV1 at a lab in Montana in 2018.

The WIV1-coronavirus was shipped from the Wuhan lab the FBI believes caused the Covid pandemic and was tested on bats acquired from a 'roadside' Maryland zoo. The 2018 experiment was carried out at the NIH's Rocky Mountain Laboratories in Montana, which was overseen by Fauci, the former director of National Institutes of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

The research was a joint venture between the NIH's Rocky Mountain Laboratories and Wuhan Institute of Virology collaborator Ralph Baric of the University of North Carolina.

Scientists obtained 12 Egyptian fruit bats from a Maryland zoo and inoculated them with the WIV1-coronavirus, which was first detected in Chinese rufous horseshoe bats.

They performed exams on the animals daily and measured things like body weight and temperature. Scientists also took samples from the bats' noses and throats.

The Enemy Within

Now, some of you might say this is a bit of a harsh statement when it comes to our government, however, I will tell you as one who took an oath to defend our constitution from enemies both foreign and DOMESTIC, that the current government as we know it today, the very ones our forefathers told us to avoid at all costs, are driving our country into the ground. They indeed are NOT representing We The People. In fact, they are entrenched so deep in their own bank accounts and self-interests that they have forgotten WE even exist. It goes far beyond even those two facts, our very government is harboring and abating the enemy both abroad and domestically.

Recent headlines from around the world pop in so frequently that it is hard to catch HALF of the shenanigans at play. Let's just look at a few items that really sum up the big picture:

Funding for Ukraine - To date, the United States alone has pushed over $150 billion with a recent request to nearly double that number, into a proxy war against the Russians.

Withdrawing from Afghanistan - President Biden said that after nearly 20 years of war, it was clear that the US military could not transform Afghanistan into a modern, stable democracy. So what did our genius government do? They fled the country and left behind $7 billion dollars of modern US weaponry.

Funding Iran and Hezbollah - Before Obama left office he authorized $400 million to Iran and flew planeloads of cash to the country. IRAN folks, the very people who tell the United States they want to kill us and Israel every chance they get! It didn't stop there, since his puppet Biden came into office the United States has done everything in its power to HELP Iran create a Nuclear missile program. In fact, within Biden's first 60 days in office, he released the sanction against the US missile manufacturer to allow Iran's missile program to start back up.

Funding and Training Palestinians and Hamas - Within the last 6 months the United States has been training 5000 Palestinian security forces in Jordan, just across the border from the occupied West Bank. In addition to this, the United States began to give the Palestinians armored vehicles to go along with their training Funding Gaza and Hamas - The headline from today, "White House envoy says continuous flow of aid to Gaza will start tomorrow." So while the Israelis are fighting for their very existence, the United States is pushing aid into an area where their enemy is being starved out.

The United States Southern Border and Migrant Infiltration - it isn't bad enough that our southern borders have been left wide open and that the administration has been tying the hands of our border patrol to prevent them from stopping the invasion, but the US Gov has been bringing people in from other hostile countries in droves and placing them directly into our cities, putting all of us at risk. Just follow Michael Yon's posts from the Darien Gap and you will see that the United States along with the UN are not only funding people to make the trip to our border, but telling them exactly what to say when they get there. Make no mistake, we are being invaded by fighting-aged males who are showing up by themselves from Syria, Lebanon, Afghanistan, Iran, Iraq, China, Venezuela, Columbia, Yemen, etc. at our southern border and who are given plane and bus tickets to places all over our country. If I were fleeing a war-torn country and seeking asylum, I damn sure would not leave my wife and kids behind. Now, if I were going into battle, THAT is exactly what I WOULD do. You may remember about a year ago when I broke the story about the H.E.A.T vests that went on back order to the public because the US Gov purchased a sea of these things... I am really starting to wonder if this isn't where they are going. Couple this information with the fact that we have brought in 3.5 million migrants into our country this year (and we still have 2 and half months to go), we should all be VERY concerned that our government has brought in a stealth army to fight We The People with the promise of citizenship.

Killer robots and work-free lives - Sunak quizzes Musk on AI future

Deadly robots that can climb trees, AI friends and a work-less future were among the topics as Rishi Sunak sat down with Elon Musk.

The prime minister held a highly unusual "in conversation" event with the billionaire X and Tesla owner at the end of this week's summit on artificial intelligence.

Throughout the wide-ranging and chummy discussion, Mr Musk held court as the prime minister asked most of the questions.

The pair talked about how London was a leading hub for the AI industry and how the technology could transform learning.

But the chat took some darker turns too, with Mr Sunak recognising the "anxiety" people have about jobs being replaced, and the pair agreeing on the need for a "referee" to keep an eye on the super-computers of the future.

The pair discussed the potential benefits of AI, with Mr Musk saying: "One of my sons has trouble making friends and an AI friend would be great for him."

There was also agreement on the possibilities AI presents for young people's learning, with Mr Musk saying it could be "the best and most patient tutor".

But there was a stark warning on the potentially ruinous impact it could have on traditional jobs.

"We are seeing the most destructive force in history here," Mr Musk said, before speculating: "There will come a point where no job is needed - you can have a job if you want one for personal satisfaction but AI will do everything.

"It's both good and bad - one of the challenges in the future will be how do we find meaning in life."

Alex Marlow: Joe Biden's A.I. Oligarchs Plan for Our Future — Harness U.S. Government, Team with China, and 'Break' Capitalism

The entire world knows that Biden's administration is for sale. From foreign governments to America's tech and defense sectors, the money will stay flowing so long as Biden's policies stay favorable to them. This is a running theme in nearly every chapter of my latest New York Times bestselling investigative book, Breaking Biden.

While Joe poses as a working-class guy, he is beholden to a class of aristocrats from ultra-wealthy enclaves on America's coasts. Their partnership is what sustains Joe and allows for these elites to grow their wealth and power.

The latest—and by far the scariest—way Biden World intends to accelerate this trend is with artificial intelligence (A.I.). Earlier this week, Biden announced an A.I. executive order that contains the beginnings of a blueprint to create a permanent majority for the left-wing. Though it was framed as an effort to regulate the A.I. sector, Axios notes that "Biden's approach is more carrot than stick."

It appears as though the Biden administration's first goals when it comes to A.I. is to use robots to enforce censorship of "misinformation" (i.e., normative conservative thought).

What's more, this executive order will put America on the path to enshrining trendy woke opinion as cold-hard facts. The law "must advance the goals of 'civil rights' and 'equity' — aka, the left's diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) framework," Breitbart Senior Tech Writer Allum Bokhari wrote.
