Israel constructs large pumps to flood Hamas terror tunnels with seawater: Wall Street Journal
Israel has constructed five large pumps that can move thousands of cubic meters of water and flood Hamas' terror tunnels within weeks, according to a report

The Israeli military has assembled several large pumps it could use to flood the Hamas tunnels beneath the Gaza Strip with seawater, driving out terrorists hiding there, The Wall Street Journal reported, citing U.S. officials.

Construction of five large seawater pumps was completed in November about one mile north of the Al-Shati refugee camp. Each pump is capable of drawing water from the Mediterranean Sea and can move thousands of cubic meters of water per hour, which would flood the tunnels within weeks, the report said.

Israel has not yet committed to the plan, and it is unclear whether it would attempt to flood the tunnels while there are still hostages, including Americans, held by Hamas. The Palestinian terror group took some 240 people captive during the Oct. 7 attack on Israel and brought them back to the Gaza Strip.

Stripped, blindfolded and 'humiliated': Images show dozens of men detained by Israeli forces in Gaza

In one photo shared on social media, men can be seen wearing nothing but underwear as they kneel in a line, surrounded by soldiers in full combat gear wielding guns.

Dozens of Palestinian men stripped to their underwear, blindfolded and made to kneel while detained by Israeli soldiers in Gaza can be seen in images that emerged on social media Thursday.

The photos and videos were circulated widely, with NBC News able to geolocate some of the footage to the city of Beit Lahia in the northern Gaza Strip. It was unclear exactly when and in what circumstances the detentions depicted in the images occurred, although it appears to be the first time that such images have been shared online and by Israeli news media.

In one photo shared on social media, men can be seen wearing nothing but underwear as they kneel in a line, surrounded by soldiers in full combat gear wielding guns amid shoes and clothing that are lying scattered on the ground.

They are kneeling in front of a bombed-out building that once housed a pharmacy in Beit Lahia, a city that has remained a hub of clashes in the north even as Israel's military has turned its focus to an assault on the south. In the background, more Palestinian men can be seen herded in the back of a camouflaged Israeli military vehicle.

UN secretary-general invokes Article 99 on Gaza

Antonio Guterres warned of a deepening 'catastrophe' in Gaza as he called on the Security Council to act.

The United Nations Secretary-General Antonio Guterres has invoked Article 99 of the UN Charter, urging the UN Security Council to act on the war in Gaza.

The rare move on Wednesday comes as the 15-member Security Council is yet to adopt a resolution calling for a ceasefire between Israel, Hamas and their allies.

Article 99 allows the secretary-general to "bring to the attention of the Security Council any matter which in his opinion may threaten the maintenance of international peace and security".

In his letter to the council's president, Guterres invoked this responsibility, saying he believed the situation in Israel and the occupied Palestinian territories, "may aggravate existing threats to the maintenance of international peace and security".

Guterres – who has been calling for an "immediate humanitarian ceasefire" since October 18 – also described "appalling human suffering, physical destruction and collective trauma across Israel and the occupied Palestinian territories".

Article 99 is a special power – and the only independent political tool given to the secretary-general in the UN Charter – that allows him to call a meeting of the Security Council on his own initiative to issue warnings about new threats to international peace and security, and matters that are not yet on the council's agenda.

US imposes visa ban for 'Israeli settlers' linked to 'extremist violence' in Judea and Samaria

The Leftist cabal is brilliant when it comes to manipulation, propaganda and confusing and muddling the discourse. Leftist propaganda in the war on Gaza continues to minimize the brutal atrocities of October 7, ignore Hamas' cruel use of human shields to rack up the tally of dead Palestinians, and likewise ignore the rejection of Palestinian refugees by neighboring Islamic countries. Add in the mainstream media's constant barrage of details from the hell of war. Every war ever fought has devastating collateral damage. But not every war has the media parading the details of this damage without adequate context before the public for propaganda purposes. World War II saw 40 million civilian deaths, including children. When a war is justified, moral people do not display its disturbing details far and wide. In the backdrop of Gaza comes more anti-Israel news from Time Magazine about the Biden Democrats:

The U.S. Department of State is set to implement travel bans on any Israeli settlers who are implicated in attacks on Palestinians in the occupied West Bank.

The move was announced by Secretary of State Antony Blinken on Tuesday, as part of efforts to establish stability in the Palestinian territory where extremist settler violence is rampant, and has worsened as a consequence of the Israel-Hamas conflict.

"We have underscored to the Israeli government the need to do more to hold accountable extremist settlers who have committed violent attacks against Palestinians in the West Bank," Blinken said in a statement. He also reiterated President Joe Biden's stance that settler attacks are unacceptable.

Note the usage of the term "Israeli settlers" and the presentation of the Palestinians as victims in an allegedly "occupied" territory. No facts of history are recognized; nor is the truth about the Islamic jihad against the Jews that was being waged long before the state of Israel was even born. According to Time:

Blinken called on both Israel's leadership and the Palestinian Authority to share responsibility for upholding stability in the West Bank and curbing attacks on both sides. The statement did not outline the details of any individual visa bans or how many would be implemented, but bans were implemented as of Tuesday.

California cancels Christmas tree lighting ceremony after pro-Palestinian protest threats

An annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony in California was canceled over a planned pro-Palestinian protest.

The 92nd annual Sacramento Christmas tree lighting will not be held publicly, with the performances instead being streamed online. Gov. Gavin Newsom (D-CA) cited tensions in the country as the reason for canceling the festivities.

"As we continue to see protests across the country impacting the safety of events of all scales – and for the safety and security of all participating members and guests including children and families – the ceremony this year will be virtual," a Newsom spokesperson said on Tuesday afternoon, according to KCRA. "The program is unchanged and viewers can tune in Wednesday evening to watch this year's festivities."

The adjusted plans were elaborated upon in a statement on the governor's website.

"The celebration, an annual tradition dating back to the 1930s, highlights California's diverse heritage and spirit of inclusion – the program will include the Oakland Interfaith Gospel Choir, the Wilton Rancheria, and representatives of the Department of Developmental Services' regional centers," the statement read.

The change in plans came after the Sacramento Regional Coalition for Palestinian Rights announced a rally and march to the capitol during the ceremony, where they would call for a ceasefire in Gaza and "out Gov. Gavin Newsom for hiding from the public because he doesn't want to face their anger at his shameful stance in regard to the genocide in Gaza," a spokesperson told KCRA.

"Governor Newsom decided to cancel the tree lighting ceremony rather than face the public that is enraged by his shameful silence on the genocide in Gaza. This certainly doesn't add up with his past stance with Native Americans," Yassar Dahbour of Sacramento Regional Coalition for Palestinian Rights said.

Last week saw a violent confrontation at the annual Rockefeller Center tree lighting ceremony in New York City, when a large pro-Palestinian crowd clashed with the police. Police deployed pepper spray and made several arrests.

Henry Kissinger, a dominating and polarizing force in US foreign policy, dies at 100

Henry Kissinger, a former US secretary of state and national security adviser who escaped Nazi Germany in his youth to become one of the most influential and controversial foreign policy figures in American history, has died. He was 100.

Kissinger died Wednesday at his home in Connecticut, according to a statement from his consulting firm, Kissinger Associates. The firm did not provide a cause of death.

Kissinger was synonymous with US foreign policy in the 1970s. He received a Nobel Peace Prize for helping arrange the end of US military involvement in the Vietnam War and is credited with secret diplomacy that helped President Richard Nixon open communist China to the United States and the West, highlighted by Nixon's visit to the country in 1972.

<https://www.technocracy.news/category/trilateral-commission/>

Oh, Henry. We Will Not Miss You

The last of the "three amigos" has left the building. Henry (nee Heintz) Kissinger has been reunited with David Rockefeller (1915-2017) and Zbigniew Brzezinski (1928-2017), all founding members of the Trilateral Commission. Whatever fate awaits them is God's business, but if they end up in Hades together, I expect they will be conspiring to demote the Devil and take over his legions of demons.

Rockefeller, Kissinger, and Brzezinski were the undisputed original architects of modern globalization, changing the world forever. They recreated China in the 1970s in the image of Technocracy, rebranded Technocracy as Sustainable Development, Agenda 21 and 2030 Agenda through the United Nations. All of this served to enslave mankind while taking over the resources of the world.

Oh, Henry. You single-handedly turned the Middle East upside down when you turned Iran over to crazed Islamists in 1979 when you stabbed the Shah of Iran, Mohammad Reza Shah Pahlav, in the back and deported him to the United States. Kissinger himself answered his critics in a 1979 editorial in The Washington Post:

"Since then I have read and heard myself described by high White House officials as acting deviously and dishonorably; as advising the shah — strangely enough — to seek the advice of our government about whether to stay or leave this country; and as having exerted pressure to get him here in the first place."

Oh, Henry. After you died, Huffpost weighed in for the left to call you "America's Most Notorious War Criminal", saying "The titan of American foreign policy was complicit in millions of deaths — and never showed remorse for his decisions." That stings, but Huffpost accurately continues,

"During his time in charge of the American foreign policy machine, Kissinger also directed illegal arms sales to Pakistan as it carried out a brutal crackdown on its Bengali population in 1971. He supported the 1973 military coup that overthrew a democratically elected socialist government in Chile, gave the go-ahead to Indonesia's 1975 invasion of East Timor, and backed Argentina's repressive military dictatorship as it launched its "dirty war" against dissenters and leftists in 1976. His policies during the Ford administration also fueled civil wars in Africa, most notably in Angola.

“Even the most generous calculations suggest that the murderous regimes Kissinger supported and the conflicts they waged were responsible for millions of deaths and millions of other human rights abuses, during and after the eight years he served in the American government.”

Oh, Henry. The Wall Street Journal sort of came to your aid by falsely suggesting that it is really the left who hates you. Actually, almost everybody on the right and the left hated you, except your globalist cronies, like Klaus Schwab who you mentored to start the World Economic Forum.

When at Harvard as a young professor, it was recorded in Medium that Kissinger,

“was leading a 22-man panel of advisors to help shape ‘European Policy’ and Klaus Schwab caught his eye early. It was later revealed that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) had been funding Kissinger’s Seminars to the tune of $135,000.”

The year 1973 was described by Richard Nixon as being the “Year of Europe”. It was a willing ally in the project of European Economic Community (EEC), formed in 1957, which has now evolved into European Union (EU).

Kissinger was quick to grasp the essence of “Year of Europe” and revived the dying North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (NATO), working on the war-fears of the Europeans.

Klaus Schwab was chosen to be the vehicle for such a goal. In 1970, Klaus wrote to the European Commission about setting up a “non-commercial think tank for European business leaders.” Galbraith was to fly over to Europe, along with Kahn, to help Schwab convince the European elites to back the project. The European Commission came aboard to sponsor this so-called “European Management Symposium” which within a year was to transform itself into the World Economic Forum.

On the face of it, the World Economic Forum was a European project — in reality, it was the handiwork of the US establishment for the CIA after all had been funding Kissinger for the same.

Oh, Henry. Klaus Schwab’s prediction that “By 2030, you will own nothing and be happy” came early for you. You now own nothing. You are likely not happy.

Oh, Henry. Were you also a founding member of the Club Of Rome in 1968 when it was created at David Rockefeller’s villa in Rome? Did you green-light the Club’s seminal book, The First Global Revolution, 1991 just in time for the UN’s 1992 summit that hatched Agenda 21? Was it you, David and Zbig who developed this strategy:

“In searching for a common enemy against whom we can unite, we came up with the idea that pollution, the threat of global warming, water shortages, famine and the like, would fit the bill...all these dangers are caused by human intervention in natural processes, and it is only through changed attitudes and behaviour that they can be overcome. The real enemy then is humanity itself.”

Oh, Henry. Did you pass your evil baton in 2021 to Eric “Don’t be evil” Schmidt when you co-authored the book with him, The Age of AI? We saw your and Schmidt’s interview with Time Magazine where you said,

We live in a world which, in effect, has no philosophy; there is no dominant philosophical view. So the technologists can run wild. They can develop world-changing things, but there’s nobody there to say, ‘We’ve got to integrate this into something.’

I see your problem: “technologists running wild” and not under your control. We trust that Schmidt will solve this little problem in your absence.

Lastly, Oh Henry, at least we see China heaping praise on you: “History will remember what the centenarian had contributed to China-US relations, and he will always remain alive in the hearts of the Chinese people as a most valued old friend.” It’s good to get some accolades when you die.

Well, Henry, we are not sad that you left us. But on the other hand, the devil who we knew is probably is better than the devil(s) who we don’t know. Many will try to fill your shoes in the future, but you will always get credit as “founding father” of master of deceit and perpetrator of evil.

Oh, give our regards to David and Zbig.

World stands on frontline of disaster at Cop28, says UN climate chief
Exclusive: Simon Stiell says leaders must ‘stop dawdling’ and act before crucial summit in Dubai

World leaders must “stop dawdling and start doing” on carbon emission cuts, as rapidly rising temperatures this year have put everyone on the frontline of disaster, the UN’s top climate official has warned.

No country could think itself immune from catastrophe, said Simon Stiell, who will oversee the crucial Cop28 climate summit that begins next week. Scores of world leaders will arrive in Dubai for tense talks on how to tackle the crisis.

“We’re used to talking about protecting people on the far-flung frontlines. We’re now at the point where we’re all on the frontline,” said Stiehl, speaking exclusively to the Guardian before the summit. “Yet most governments are still strolling when they need to be sprinting.”

Global temperatures have broken new records in recent months, making this year the hottest on record, and perilously close to the threshold of 1.5C above pre-industrial levels that countries have agreed to hold to. Temperatures are now heading for a “hellish” 3C increase, unless urgent and drastic action is taken, but greenhouse gas emissions have continued to rise.

FDA Approved, Controversial Lab-Grown Meat Becomes a Reality

So far, only two countries—the United States and Singapore—have approved cultivated meat for human consumption.

In an effort to protect its farming industry, its economy, and the health of its citizens, Italy recently became the first country to officially ban cultivated meat.

Cultivated meat, also known as lab-grown meat, is created in a lab through a five-step process in which stem cells from an animal are replicated and grown in a series of bioreactors before being blended with additives to create a more realistic texture. The meat cells are then drained in a centrifuge, formed, and packaged for distribution, according to consulting firm McKinsey & Company.
