White House Bans Religious Easter Eggs From Art Contest

Following the publication of this article, the Daily Caller became aware of additional context that undercut the central assertion of this article and its newsworthiness. The ban of religious symbolism on eggs as part of the White House Easter egg activities has been longstanding, dating back decades, and the Biden administration did not make any modifications to this rule.

Biden declares 2024 Easter Sunday date as 'Transgender Day of Visibility'

"I call upon all Americans to join us in lifting up the lives and voices of transgender people throughout our Nation and to work toward eliminating violence and discrimination based on gender identity," the White House said.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOSEPH R. BIDEN JR., President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim March 31, 2024, as Transgender Day of Visibility," the White House wrote in a Friday press release.

"I call upon all Americans to join us in lifting up the lives and voices of transgender people throughout our Nation and to work toward eliminating violence and discrimination based on gender identity," the statement continued.

Biden has spoken out in support of the transgender community in the past. Last year, he paid tribute to transgender people who lost their lives due to violence.

But extremists are proposing hundreds of hateful laws that target and terrify transgender kids and their families — silencing teachers; banning books; and even threatening parents, doctors, and nurses with prison for helping parents get care for their children. These bills attack our most basic American values: the freedom to be yourself, the freedom to make your own health care decisions, and even the right to raise your own child. It is no surprise that the bullying and discrimination that transgender Americans face is worsening our Nation's mental health crisis, leading half of transgender youth to consider suicide in the past year. At the same time, an epidemic of violence against transgender women and girls, especially women and girls of color, continues to take too many lives. Let me be clear: All of these attacks are un-American and must end. No one should have to be brave just to be themselves.

Biden denies responsibility for proclaiming Easter as Transgender Visibility Day, saying, "I Didn't Do That"

Speaking at the White House's annual Easter Egg Roll on Monday, Biden said, "I didn't do that." Reporters questioned Biden about House Speaker Mike Johnson's criticism of the proclamation as Johnson accused the White House of betraying the central tenet of Easter.

“Speaker Johnson said you betrayed the tenet of Easter by proclaiming Sunday, Easter Sunday as Transgender Day,” Owen Jensen, EWTN's White House correspondent, asked. “He called it outrageous and abhorrent. What do you have to say to Speaker Johnson?”

Responding to the query, Biden distanced himself from the decision of proclamation, saying, "I didn't do that." When pressed further by Owen Jensen, EWTN's White House correspondent, Biden reiterated "I didn't do that," and that Speaker Johnson was "thoroughly uninformed."

Sacramento is now a sanctuary city for transgender people

The city of Sacramento is now a transgender sanctuary city, believed to be the first in California to vote for this designation.

The move was a big victory for transgender advocates in Lavender Heights, the heart of Sacramento's LGBTQ+ community.

Sabrina Naves is a trans advocate who says families are moving to Sacramento from other states that restrict or ban gender-affirming health care.

"They've moved to Sacramento. They've come here and they found a welcoming home for themselves," Naves said.

The city council voted to protect those families by declaring Sacramento a transgender sanctuary city.

'Every life is sacred': Calgary church combines drag show with Easter Sunday service

'It is very powerful for me, it is important that every person knows that they are sacred, that they are whole, and they are divine,' said Calgary Unitarian minister Samaya Oakley

The Calgary Unitarian church held an Easter Sunday service that included drag performances supporting the LGBTQ+ community, in light of Alberta government policies that will affect rights for transgender youth.

Landing on March 31 this year Easter Sunday coincides with the International Transgender Day of Visibility, and drag queen performer Indigo said it's an important time to be highlighting and focusing on transgender youth.

Liberal churches celebrate Transgender Day of Visibility on Easter this year: 'DRAG ME TO CHURCH'

The Biden White House also declared Easter Sunday Transgender Day of Visibility

A handful of liberal churches, religious groups and LGBTQ+ organizations are celebrating the fact that Transgender Day of Visibility, recognized each year on March 31, falls on Easter Sunday in 2024.

Easter Sunday, which is not a fixed date, also falls on March 31, marking one of the most important liturgical celebrations as millions of Christians commemorate the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Though Transgender Day of Visibility has been celebrated since 2009 on March 31, several liberal religious and non-religious organizations have rejoiced that Easter will fall on the same day. Some churches are superimposing transgender themes on Easter celebrations.

In commentary shared by Rachael Ward, the United Church of Christ's minister for Gender and Sexuality Justice Ministries, the author declared that "LGBTQ+ people need a resurrection moment where death does not have the word and love transcends hate."

Trump vows to create 'Christian Visibility Day' following Biden's declaration of 'Trans Visibility Day'

'Transgender Day of Visibility' happened to land on Easter Sunday this year

Former President Trump vowed to create a "Christian Visibility Day" following President Biden's declaration of "Transgender Day of Visibility," which happened to land on Easter Sunday this year.

"And what the h--- was Biden thinking when he declared Easter Sunday to be trans visibility day?" Trump asked his supporters during a campaign rally in Green Bay, Wisconsin, on Tuesday. "Such total disrespect to Christians."

The presumptive Republican nominee for president promised that Nov. 5 would be "Christian Visibility Day" if he is elected.

"And on Nov. 5, it is going to be called something else. You know, it's going to be called Christian Visibility Day," Trump said to thunderous applause.

SNL Easter Cold Open Portrays Trump as Jesus Rising From the Grave

The March 30 cold open on "Saturday Night Live" (SNL) mocked former President Donald Trump's use of Christianity to gain supporters. The SNL cold open lampooned Trump's promotion of the God Bless the USA Bible, the fact he has compared himself to Jesus, and his lack of knowledge about the Christian faith.

The sketch began with some introductory text appearing over various images of Jesus Christ and his crucifixion before the shot switched to the set where three actors portrayed the women who waited at Jesus' tomb.

After a joke about how too many of them were named "Mary," they expressed shock as the stone started rolling away. One asked, "Is it Jesus?" In response, President Trump, played by James Austin Johnson, came out of the tomb, answering, "Basically, yes."

“Happy Easter, everybody!” he said. “As it was stated in the Bible, guess who’s back, back again? Shady’s back.” He then dismissed the “girls,” telling them they have “no more lines. You did great. Bye bye.”

Christian woman says Starbucks fired her for refusing to use transgender people's pronouns: 'It is against my faith to lie'

Christian woman has come forward to say Starbucks fired her for refusing to use transgender people's pronouns.

The woman in question — Taylor Marie Trice of North Carolina — spoke to Sarah Fields of the Publica about her ordeal, which occurred in 2022.

Earlier this week, Trice uploaded a video to TikTok discussing what happened: “June came around, and as we all know, June is the month of 'tasting the rainbow.' And I had been working at Starbucks for about two years at that point. So I was used to Starbucks putting up their [Pride] decorations and stuff during the month of June. And throughout that time, no one had ever made a complaint about me being homophobic, transphobic, whatever.”

Trice added in the clip that she's “not judging” her fellow employees but that her stance was, “I'm just not about to go along with everything you want to do if it doesn't go along with God's word.” This time, she said in the video, “They went a little bit beyond the rainbow,” and it was starting to “taste sour and not sweet.”

“I was willing to call the person by their name, I was willing to avoid using pronouns. But it is against my faith to lie, even if it’s the smallest lie,” Trice said in her video, adding that “if I see that you are a man, and I call you a woman, that is lying ... and that is identifying you as something that God did not create you to be.” She added that Satan wants confuse and deceive people.

Trice added in her video that her store manager came to her said that “you need to talk with me and the district manager” and that “there had been complaints made about me and how I was doing things that are, like, homophobic or whatever." Trice said in her video that she was then terminated

Man Sets Trailer of Bibles on Fire in Front of Greg Locke's Church on Easter Sunday

On Easter Sunday (March 31), a man lit a trailer filled with Bibles on fire near the entrance of Greg Locke's Global Vision Bible Church (GVBC) in Mt. Juliet, Tennessee, in what appears to be an attempt to thwart people from attending the worship service.

"Happy Resurrection Sunday," Locke posted on social media. "This morning at 6:00 AM our security cameras caught a man dropping off a trailer in the middle of the intersection and blocking the road into our church."

Locke said that the man then "got out and set fire to an entire trailer full of Bibles right in front of our church." Fortunately, a woman who had driven all night to attend GVBC's Easter service was sitting in the parking lot and quickly alerted police.

Luther Seminary's Preaching Conference Ft. Trans Preacher Who Called Jesus a 'Son of a B*'

Luther Seminary's preaching conference is just around the corner, and it's featuring a transgendered pastrix who famously called Jesus a 'Son of a B ****'

Every year, Luther Seminary of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) puts on the "Festival of Homiletics" featuring the who's who of apostate wolflings, and whose goal is to help attendees "relearn ways to care for the craft of preaching and discover new habits to support the preaching life."

Devoid of anything resembling the Holy Spirit, this event is basically a Shepherds Conference for schismatics, featuring 1500 clergy and lay people from around the country.

One guest that stands out is ELCA impastor Nicole Garcia, who was born a man but now identifies as a woman (and whose male pronouns we will exclusively use.)

The former 'pastor' of Westview Church in Boulder, Co, he now serves as the Faith Work Director of the denomination's National LGBTQ Task Force, where he's free to spread the message of queer social contagion and transiting the kids with unfettered access and impunity.

We know him as the ELCA's first transgender Latina Pastor, as well as a recounting a profile in NBC news to mark the occasion when he said this about the Lord of Glory:

Garcia's marriage crumbled after 8 years, and (his) wife asked for a divorce in 2002. After they separated, Garcia was sitting at (his) kitchen table, wondering why (he) had thrown away what seemed like an ideal life.

"I had my come-to-Jesus moment. It wasn't one of those, "Oh please, oh please, help me,"" (he) explained. "It was more, "Alright you son of a bitch, if I'm going to come back, you better step it up this time.'"

Charming, and completely on brand for the Jesus-hating gulag of sin.

CIA 'warns Iran will attack Israel within 48 hours' as revenge for consulate strike

US Intelligence officials have branded Israel's strike on the Iranian consulate in Syria as "reckless" and fear a wider war in the Middle East.

The CIA has warned Israel that Iran will attack the country in the next 48 hours, it has been reported.

Israel killed two Iranian military commanders with a strike on Tehran's consulate in the Syrian capital Damascus this week.

Iran vowed that it would take revenge for the attack, and now foreign media is reporting that US intelligence is fearful of an attack on Israel.

Tehran is said to be planning a combined attack with a "rain" of drones and missiles fired from its bases at strategic locations inside Israel, according to Al Mayadeen.

This comes after US officials raised fears that the Israeli strike could lead to a wider war in the Middle East.

The IDF said on Wednesday that it bolstered its air defense array and had called up reservists, as the country girded for a potential Iranian response to a strike in Syria earlier this week in which several high-ranking Iranian military officials were killed.

Both Iran and its proxy Hezbollah have vowed that Israel will not go unpunished for the Monday attack on a consular building next to Iran's embassy in Damascus, which killed Mohammad Reza Zahedi, the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps' most senior official in Syria, along with his deputy, five other IRGC officers, and at least one member of the Hezbollah terror group.

Baltimore bridge collapse draws comparisons to Obama-produced film about cargo ship cyberattack

'Leave The World Behind,' produced for Netflix by Barack and Michelle Obama, compared to Baltimore's Francis Scott Key Bridge collapse

Images from the shocking bridge collapse in Baltimore have drawn comparisons online to a recent film produced by Barack and Michelle Obama about a cargo ship under cyberattack.

The White House has said the incident involving the cargo ship that plowed into Baltimore's Francis Scott Key Bridge was not believed to have had nefarious intent and showed no signs of terrorism or cyberattacks.

But online users pointed out similarities between images of the collapse and a scene from "Leave The World Behind," the first fictional film Barack and Michelle Obama produced for Netflix. There is a scene in the film, directed by Sam Esmail and starring Julia Roberts, Mahershala Ali, Kevin Bacon and Ethan Hawke, where an oil tanker, named the White Lion, crashes onto the beachfront amid a crowd of horrified tourists.

"In 2023, the Obamas produced a movie called Leave the World Behind, where a cyberattack causes a massive container ship to lose power & crash," Matt Wallace wrote to his 1.6 million followers on X." Months later a massive container ship loses power & crashes into Francis Scott Key Bridge in Baltimore, CAUSING A DEADLY COLLAPSE."

Tennessee Lawmakers Pass Bill Targeting mRNA Vaccines In Food

Following concerns over research to embed vaccines in produce, the Tennessee Senate has passed a bill which would require any food containing vaccines or vaccine materials to be labeled as pharmaceutical drugs.

The bill, HB 1894, was passed by the Senate in a 23-6 vote on March 28 after the state House passed it 73-22 on March 4. It awaits the governor's signature.

The bill comes in response to a University of California-Riverside research project looking into whether mRNA which targets pathogens could be implanted into edible plants, which would then be consumed. The research was funded by a $500,000 grant from the National Science Foundation.

"You would have to get a prescription for that to make sure that we know how much of the lettuce you have to eat based off of your body type so we don't under-vaccinate you, which leads to the possibility of the efficacy of the drug being compromised, or we overdose you based off how much lettuce is [eaten]," said Republican state Rep. Scott Cepicky during a House committee meeting in February, WKRN-TV reports.

Cepicky said that the bill, which local media described as a move targeting "vaccine lettuce," would classify foods modified to act as vaccines, as pharmaceuticals.

"So if you want to consume them you would go to your doctor and get a prescription," he said.

In a 2021 press release, UC Riverside associate professor of Botany and Plant Sciences, Juan Pablo, said "We are testing this approach with spinach and lettuce and have long-term goals of people growing it in their own gardens," adding "Farmers could also eventually grow entire fields of it."

According to Pablo, "Ideally, a single plant would produce enough mRNA to vaccinate a single person."

Another researcher, Nicole Steinmetz, said in the same release that they planned to use nanoparticles or "plant viruses, for gene delivery to plants."

American Rancher Blows Whistle on mRNA Vaccine Tests in Livestock

"Let's get this information out there and make people aware. And as always, guys, buy American and buy local."

A U.S. rancher sounded the alarm about regulators beginning to mandate an experimental mRNA vaccine for livestock that will be processed as meat.

"Let's dig into the statistics sheet about mRNA vaccines in live animals and why this is a concern not only as a consumer, but as a producer as well," the the unnamed rancher began in a social media post.

"They took 525 hogs, injected them with a live mRNA vaccine and in 21 days, these were the statistics

- 25 of them suffered from death
- 55 of them became so anorexic that they were near death
- 20 of them suffered from lameness
- 12 of them suffered from loss of condition
- and 25 more of them had near death symptoms"

As we reported, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has been looking the other way on the use of mRNA vaccines in meat production categorized as "organic", according to agribusiness watchdog group OrganicEye.

"The impetus for us to act now is the impending introduction of vaccines for livestock produced using mRNA technology similar to that used by Pfizer and Moderna to produce their respective versions of the SARS-CoV-2 vaccine," stated Mark Kastel, executive director of the Wisconsin-based group.

“There is a continuing controversy in the country concerning this new technology and we should work to preserve organics as the last safe haven for eaters who want to secure a truly ‘natural’ diet,” he added.

Apple has been secretly building home robots that could end up as a new product line, report says

Apple is in the early stages of looking into making home robots, a move that appears to be an effort to create its "next big thing" after it killed its self-driving car project earlier this year, sources familiar with the matter told Bloomberg.

Engineers are looking into developing a robot that could follow users around their houses, Bloomberg reported. They're also exploring a tabletop at-home device that uses robotics to rotate the display, a more advanced project than the mobile robot.

The idea behind the smart display robot is to mimic a person's head movement, such as reacting during a FaceTime session. It would also include a feature that zooms in on a particular person in a crowd during a video call. This device initially caught the attention of senior Apple executives years ago, though they've disagreed over whether to continue with the project, Bloomberg said.

Australian Senate Approves Digital ID, America Is Next

The fifth requirement (out of seven) of historic Technocracy, as documented in the Technocracy Study Course in 1934, was “Provide specific registration of the consumption of each individual, plus a record and description of the individual.” This has been in play for NINETY YEARS, waiting for the technology to catch up. The modern perpetrators of this digital panopticon are not communists, socialists, or Marxists, but TECHNOCRATS.

China is leading the way for Technocracy worldwide, spreading its tentacles everywhere. Don't forget that China didn't just appear out of nowhere: it was the careful creation of the financial/banking cartel headed by the Trilateral Commission during the Jimmy Carter Administration. None of those people were Communists: David Rockefeller, Zbigniew Brzezinski, Henry Kissinger, Arthur Burns, etc. However, they poured billions into constructing infrastructure, factories, and transfer of Western technology. Today, this crowd hides its involvement by making China out to be our enemy. - TN Editor

Digital IDs were just approved in the Australian Senate and will be coming soon to the U.S. as part of the World Economic Forum-backed global technocratic gulag complete with central bank digital currencies (CBDCs) and social credit scores for all, warned journalist Alex Newman in an interview with Alison Steinberg on One America News.

The bill, which passed through the Australian Senate on March 27, is “putting in place the legislative framework for the phased expansion of the Australian Government’s Digital ID system to include state and territory government services and the private sector,” said Katy Gallagher, Australian Minister for Finance.

The Australian government published hypothetical example cases for what life would be like with—and without—a digital ID:

Amir and his family lost their house during a recent flood, and he needs to prove who he is to access government support.

Without a Digital ID

Amir will find it more difficult to prove his identity, given his ID documents were lost in the flood.

With a Digital ID

Amir had already set up a Digital ID before he lost his ID documents in the flood. With his mobile and an internet connection, he can log on online and verify his ID within 5 minutes to access the cash claim.

What the Australian government and all totalitarian evildoers neglect to mention is the complete loss of privacy and individual sovereignty that digitization brings.

Among other concerns, digital IDs are a key part of the architecture of tyranny. They have been pushed for many years by Bill Gates, the Rockefeller dynasty, and other known subversives pushing the overthrow of human liberty and prosperity.

<https://thenewamerican.com/featured/un-bill-gates-behind-digital-public-infrastructure-for-global-control/>

UN & Bill Gates Behind “Digital Public Infrastructure” for Global Control

Dozens of national governments are joining with the United Nations and billionaire population-control fanatic Bill Gates on a global program to impose “digital public infrastructure” (DPI) on their citizens within five years. This "DPI" includes central bank digital currencies (CBDCs), digital identification, comprehensive data systems, and more, all functional across national borders.

The new scheme, unveiled late last year and moving ahead rapidly, is known as “50 in 5” because 50 governments expect to have the Orwellian “digital infrastructure” of tyranny in place within five years. Almost a dozen governments, including numerous corrupt kleptocracies and socialist regimes, have volunteered their populations to serve as “First Mover” countries so far.

However, the UN’s assumption is that every government will eventually impose this on every person on Earth. This is clearly expressed throughout its announcements. “All countries, regardless of income level, geography, or where they are in their digital transformation journey, can benefit from being a part of 50-in-5,” the UN agency behind the scheme declared. “Joining the campaign helps ensure countries don’t have to tackle DPI implementation alone or start from scratch.”

Disease X: Critics say Biden admin selling out US sovereignty with WHO treaty
The WHO wants to ratify the treaty in May as it warns of a pandemic deadlier than the coronavirus

The Biden administration is negotiating a controversial global pandemic treaty with the World Health Organization (WHO) that the health agency says will help the world prepare for the next pandemic and the potential outbreak of "Disease X," but critics say the agreement will end up stifling free speech and cede American sovereignty to the global body.

The WHO has been sounding the alarm for months that a May deadline for having the text of the treaty agreed upon is fast approaching, an accord it says is necessary to "bolster the world's collective preparedness and response to future pandemics." The health agency wants to ratify the treaty at the World Health Assembly at its May 2024 Annual General Assembly.

Last week, dozens of former heads of state, including former U.K. Prime Ministers Tony Blair and Gordon Brown, as well as former UN General Secretary Ban-ki Moon, penned a joint letter urging "accelerated progress" in current negotiations while WHO Director Tedros Ghebreyesus has been warning that an agreement is needed for "when, not if," Disease X strikes. Disease X is a hypothetical "placeholder" virus that has not yet been formed, but scientists say it could be 20 times deadlier than COVID-19.

"The Biden-Harris Administration's most fundamental responsibility is to protect the American people. To do that, we must protect the U.S. against the next pandemic by working with other countries to help detect threats as soon as they emerge, contain those threats at their source, and respond quickly to save lives," a State Department spokesperson said.
