Abortion Was Leading Cause of Death Worldwide for Fifth Consecutive Year in 2023

The abortion statistics for 2023 are in, and they make for grim reading.

The Christian Post reported that abortion was the leading cause of death worldwide in 2023, topping infectious diseases and cancer.

Approximately 44.6 million babies were murdered in the womb over the course of 2023, marking the fifth consecutive year in which abortion was the world's leading cause of death.

Other significant causes of death included infectious diseases (12.9 million), cancer (8.2 million), smoking (4.9 million), alcohol abuse (2.4 million), HIV and AIDS (1.6 million), traffic accidents (1.3 million) and suicide (over 1 million).

When added up, abortion caused more deaths than all the aforementioned factors combined.

AI-driven fake news an urgent global risk ahead of major elections – report

The spread of AI-driven misinformation has become the biggest and most urgent risk for global business leaders, as UK voters are expected to take to the polls for a general election this year, a new study has revealed.

But climate change leading to extreme weather events remains the biggest concern over the long term, according to the World Economic Forum's (WEF) annual survey.

The poll of more than 1,400 global risk experts, policymakers and industry leaders revealed major concerns that false information will be used to further widen societal and political divides.

It comes at a time of conflict in regions including the Middle East and Ukraine, which leaders fear will be worsened by new technologies.

Artificial intelligence (AI) is expected to fuel the spread of false news, amid the rise of "deepfake" videos appearing on social media.

The business leaders polled said they thought misinformation and disinformation – the latter of which refers to news deliberately intended to deceive people – is the biggest worldwide risk over the next two years.

It overtakes the cost-of-living crisis as the most urgent threat, according to the analysis by the WEF and compiled with Marsh McLennan and Zurich Insurance Group.

Close to three billion people are expected to face elections in several countries including Bangladesh, India, Mexico, the UK and the US over the next two years, the WEF said.

UK Prime Minister Rishi Sunak said he was working toward a general election in the second half of the year.

<https://alexberenson.substack.com/p/the-aarp-just-told-its-38-million>

The AARP just told its 38 million members to get an eighth (yes, EIGHTH!) shot of mRNA. The lobbying group for older Americans just told its nearly 38 million members to "hustle" for another Covid jab, even if they have already had five boosters.

See for yourself. The following question-and-answer column ran in the organization's December "AARP Bulletin":

AARP is open to anyone 50 or older. The column does not specify a narrower or higher age range for its recommendation. Thus it implies that even a 50-year-old who has not already had six "Covid boosters" needs to "catch up" with another immediately.

Keep in mind that someone who has had “five Covid boosters” has actually received seven mRNA jabs - the initial two-shot primary vaccination regimen, followed by five boosters.

Thus AARP is suggesting its members should be taking their eighth jab of mRNA in the last three years. Yet scientists have essentially no safety data beyond a third shot, much less a fourth or more, and thus no way of knowing if the risks of repeated mRNA dosing rise with each shot.

Very Revealing – Supreme Court Refuses to Permit Twitter to Outline Scope of FBI/DHS Unlawful Domestic Surveillance

January 9, 2024 | Sundance | 471 Comments

If you understand how the Dept of Homeland Security and FBI access and ultimately control the content of social media platforms, specifically the public opinion square of Twitter, then you can start to understand a much bigger aspect to this hidden court case.

KEY CONTEXT – During the Twitter File releases, existing DHS/FBI guidance controlled what the Twitter legal team was allowed to share with researchers. The Twitter File group gave Twitter search terms, and the Twitter team entered the search words/phrases and generated results. However, the Twitter legal team then had to filter that information against the instructions of DHS/FBI to determine what the research group was allowed to know; ultimately, what was allowed to become public information.

Volkswagen Integrates OpenAI’s ChatGPT Into In-Car Voice Assistant

Volkswagen has integrated OpenAI's artificial-intelligence (AI) chatbot, ChatGPT, into its IDA voice assistant.

This integration will provide Volkswagen customers with seamless access to an ever-expanding AI database, allowing them to have researched content read out to them while driving, the automaker said in a Tuesday (Jan. 9) press release.

The new functionality, enabled by Cerence Chat Pro from technology partner Cerence, will be available in various Volkswagen models equipped with the latest generation of infotainment, according to the release.

"Volkswagen has always democratized technology and made it accessible to the many. This is simply ingrained in our DNA," Kai Grunitz, member of the board of management Volkswagen brand for technical development, said in the release. "As a result, we are now the first volume manufacturer to make this innovative technology a standard feature in vehicles from the compact segment upwards."

This integration goes beyond traditional voice control, offering enhanced capabilities such as controlling infotainment, navigation, air conditioning and answering general knowledge questions, the release said.

As the AI capabilities expand, users can expect additional information during their car journeys, enriching conversations and providing vehicle-specific information, all in a hands-free manner, per the release.

Your car will soon use surveillance cameras with facial-recognition software to 'allow' you to operate it

It's all being pitched as a matter of safety, security and convenience, but beware the dark side

New digital ID technology is coming to the automotive industry that will soon require you to submit to a face scan in order to operate your own car.

Biometric Update reports that a technology company called Continental has developed an external display and biometric camera to be placed on the outside of vehicles for facial recognition and “liveness detection.”

This will allow a vehicle’s “authorized driver” to open and start the car automatically without keys or even a remote key pod.

Unveiled at the world’s largest tech conference, CES 2024, the so-called Face Authentication Display also includes internal cameras, and is equipped with liveness detection from biometrics provider trinamiX, a subsidiary of BASF.

A press release describes how the vehicle’s interior camera is located behind the driver display console – purportedly an industry first – while the exterior camera for facial authentication and keyless entry is mounted in the vehicle’s B-pillar.

“The biometric authentication system from trinamiX can recognize real skin, which adds a layer of liveness security against masks and generative AI deepfakes,” the press release states.

Having two cameras also opens up more user settings and preferences – allowing, for instance, every member of a family to open a car, but only a verified adult to start the ignition via face recognition. Wilfried Hermes, director of consumer electronics for North America and Europe at trinamiX, says the integration of the company’s biometric face authentication system “ensures the highest security standards in both the exterior and interior.”

Artificial Intelligence Is Allowing Them to Construct a Global Surveillance Prison From Which No Escape Is Possible

Every inch of our planet is being watched, and incredibly sophisticated “artificial intelligence solutions” make it possible for those that are watching our planet to find whatever they want in just minutes. You can try to run, and you can try to hide, but if they really want to find you it won't be very difficult. All around us, a global surveillance prison is being constructed. Even if you completely stay off the Internet and you totally avoid all forms of modern technology, cameras and satellites will still be endlessly watching you. And once your face has been identified, artificial intelligence can be used to locate you wherever you pop up on the entire planet.

Corey Jaskolski is the CEO of an artificial intelligence company known as Syntheticaic, and the system that his company has developed is extremely impressive.

BRUMFIEL: AI has been getting attention for its potential to bring huge changes to lots of different fields in the near future, but the AI revolution in surveillance is happening now. For decades, cameras have been watching over cities, businesses and even homes. But that footage has mainly been stored locally, and reviewing it took a pair of human eyes. Not anymore. AI systems can now hunt for a van in a city, scan license plates and even faces in real time. The system being developed by Syntheticaic has many possible uses. An environmental group, for example, is trying to use it to track large livestock operations globally to monitor greenhouse gas emissions. Syntheticaic's system really can find anything you want anywhere in the world.

Syntheticaic, a leading provider of advanced artificial intelligence (AI) solutions, and has announced a five-year strategic partnership agreement with Microsoft aimed at revolutionizing AI data and cloud solutions. As part of this agreement, Microsoft is providing Syntheticaic access to nearly 1 million hours (about 114 years) of cloud compute resources. This strategic collaboration will unlock a new era of possibilities in computer vision and data analysis, with a wide range of benefits across defense and intelligence, commercial, and non-government agency applications.

This partnership will help significantly accelerate innovation with Syntheticaic's key product, the Rapid Automatic Image Categorization (RAIC) tool. RAIC, built on Microsoft Azure, enables unparalleled search capabilities through automated data labelling, allowing for the exploration of massive global datasets, without the need for pretraining or structuring. RAIC was instrumental in the tracing of suspected Chinese balloon flights through 18 trillion pixels of Earth observation imagery without a pretrained model using a rough sketch and unlabeled data.

Most people don't even know that this sort of surveillance technology exists.

SHOP-POCALYPSE 'You make customers feel like criminals', shoppers fume as Morrisons unleashes 'robocop' cameras in supermarket aisles

The devices are equipped with a state-of-the-art 120db siren system to alert against thieves

MORRISONS is using 'robocop' cameras in supermarket aisles to stop customers from stealing expensive booze.

It installed branded Safer Pod S1s next to alcohol as a deterrent against the shoplifting epidemic plaguing Britain.

The stationary four-legged safety devices are equipped with HD cameras and a state-of-the-art 120db siren system to alert against thieves.

They are powered by a solar panel battery and can be moved around the store to problem areas while operated by a control room via an app.

Morrisons is currently reviewing the results of their trial in "a handful" of stores over the Christmas period.

One CCTV monitoring station was seen stationed next to premium whisky on Monday with the warning "we're keeping an eye on things to keep your store safe".

Chinese billionaire is second-biggest foreign owner of US land

A CHINESE national who made his fortune from online gaming has emerged as one of the most significant non-American holders of land in the United States.

Chen Tianqiao owns 80,127 hectares (ha) of Oregon timberland, making him the country's 82nd-largest property owner, according to the Land Report's latest ranking.

Chen, 50, acquired the acreage from Fidelity National Financial Ventures for US$85 million in 2015. Oregon tax records last month disclosed the name of the beneficial owner as Shanda Asset Management, the same moniker as Chen's Singapore-based holding group.

Pentagon Report Reveals Over $1 Billion in Weapons Sent to Ukraine Unaccounted For, Almost 40,000 Arms Improperly Monitored Amid Congressional Debate on Further Funding to Ukraine

A recent Pentagon report has brought to light that over $1 billion in military aid sent to Ukraine by the United States has not been properly accounted for.

The Defense Department report, which was presented to Congress on Thursday and obtained by The New York Times, reveals serious lapses in the tracking of critical weapons systems amidst heated congressional debates regarding additional support for Ukraine.

The unaccounted-for arsenal includes advanced shoulder-fired missiles, sophisticated kamikaze drones, and state-of-the-art night vision devices.

These items are classified as "high-risk" due to their advanced technology and the ease with which they could be transported and potentially fall into the wrong hands.

EXCLUSIVE: Christian jailed over January 6 calls fellow prisoners to Jesus in new open letter

'Jesus saves, Jesus liberates, and Jesus vindicates. Your victory is assured in Him,' Leo Kelly wrote to his fellow January 6 prisoners in an open letter sent exclusively to LifeSiteNews from his federal prison in Minnesota.

To my fellow J6ers and the families and friends suffering with you,
My name is Leo. I'm from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and I'm about 2.5 months into a 30-month sentence at a low-security prison in Rochester, MN. My story hasn't been half as difficult as many of yours, [and] I salute the ones who've been incarcerated since the beginning, along with the rest of those who have felt the especially heavy hand of The System.

I bet you share my frustration with the government and its refusal to fulfill its God-given mission of protecting your freedoms. If your mind is like mine, it often reminds you that the ONLY authorized purpose for the government in the Declaration of Independence on July 4th, 1776, is to protect the inalienable rights that its citizens have been endowed with by their Creator. It's easy to be infuriated by Washington DC's outright rebellion against the legitimate law of the United States of America. The Washington DC System now reigns in place of the law of the United States of America.

But let me remind you that the Creator who endowed you with your rights set aside His rights (which are far greater than yours) and willingly laid down His life in a humiliating fashion, naked on a cross, in order to purchase those rights for you. If the Creator's path to victory went through suffering and death, are you willing to embrace the same path for yourself and your nation? You are descended from the stock of Valley Forge; will you shrink back now that God has called you forth?

Jesus saves, Jesus liberates, and Jesus vindicates. Your victory is assured in Him; take care that you are not found wandering anywhere else. The judge who presided over your kangaroo court will face the Eternal Judge. The U.S. Attorneys who weaponized the law to target you are under God's indictment. The FBI agents who framed you are in God's crosshairs.

If you want to be free, leave room for God's vengeance: it is assured. Your best strategy is to forgive, to do good to those who have abused you, and to love God with everything you've got.

He's honored you with a key role in fighting for this nation; see that you execute your task faithfully!

Methodist Church Goes Full Woke Warning That Terms Husband & Wife Are Hurtful

Franklin Graham, the popular evangelist who heads the Samaritan's Purse worldwide Christian charity as well as the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association that his famous father started, is scolding officials of the Methodist church in the United Kingdom.

It's because they're telling ministers that using the words "husband" and "wife" is "hurtful."

The church's ideology comes from the worldwide agenda to promote the LGBT lifestyle choices. Those lifestyles made the use of those words awkward because, for instance, when two men are "married," which is the husband, or are both?

Graham, online, wrote, "The Methodist Church in the United Kingdom has released its own 'Inclusive Church Language Guide' that urges ministers and church-goers to avoid using words such as 'husband' and 'wife' (and more) because those terms can be 'hurtful' and 'offensive.'"

Impastor Preaches Sermon Comparing Harvard Plagiarist Claudine Gay to Apostle Peter's Mother- In-Law In the WEIRDEST Way Possible

Rev. Adriene Thorne is the newest pastrix of the historic Riverside Church in New York City, described on their website as "one of the leading voices of Progressive Christianity" and "a forum for important civic and spiritual leaders, including Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Nelson Mandela, President Clinton, the Dalai Lama, and countless others."

An out-and-out pagan and theological whorette, we last wrote about her after she preached a sermon suggesting that God's a racist, sexist, bigoted homophobe who really can't be trusted, on account of declaring David a man after his own heart despite David 'raping' Bathsheba, intoning that she doesn't trust his repentance one little bit.

In a recent sermon, she defends Harvard plagiarist Claudine Gay, saying the attacks that saw the former president resign from her post were little more than attempts to keep black women from achieving great things, and then compared Gay to the Apostle Peter's mother-in-law

Gay Rapper Trolls Christians, Claims He's Been Accepted Into Prominent Bible College

Openly, flamboyantly gay rapper Lil Nas X' (Montero Lamar Hill), perhaps best known for his hit 'Old Town Road' and releasing the controversial 'Devil's shoes', continues to intentionally and deliberately troll Christians.

A month ago, he announced he was entering into his 'Christian music phase'. He followed up this claim with a real real action, revealing he was releasing a new single on January 12 titled 'J Christ.'

Billboard explains: "The cover art for the new track sees the rapper taking Jesus' place on a crucifix as five bystanders begin to raise him off the ground. A second video clip sees him nailed to a gold cross that suddenly transforms into a mechanical suit complete with a halo." We will not post the images because they are abhorrently blasphemous.

Feeding the marketing frenzy, Lil Nas X announced that he's been accepted into Liberty University, with a dual concentration in Christian Leadership and Biblical studies.

Of course, the signature of who signed his letter of acceptance is a dead giveaway. Jerry Falwell, the long-time president of the University, passed away in 2007. His son who took over, Jerry Falwell Jr, resigned in disgrace in 2020 following a sex scandal. The current president is Dondi E. Costin, making this letter a poor attempt to those who know, but a credible prop for the uninformed.

Trans professor with 'be gay, do crimes' tattoo appointed to WHO taskforce

Law professor will help create health guidelines for 'trans, gender diverse people'

A Canadian transgender professor who sports a “be gay, do crimes” tattoo recently was appointed to a World Health Organization group tasked with developing healthcare guidelines for “trans and gender diverse people.”

Florence Ashley, an assistant law professor at the University of Alberta, is one of 21 individuals on the new taskforce, and about half of them identify as transgender, The Post Millennial reports. Ashley uses “they, them, that, bitch” pronouns, according to the report.

Scheduled to meet in February, their goal is to develop international guidelines that will increase “access and utilization of quality and respectful health services by trans and gender diverse people,” according to a Dec. 18 announcement from the WHO.

Outrage in Italy after hundreds give fascist salute at a rally in Rome

“Absolutely abhorrent,” the European Jewish Congress said on X. “That gesture is from the darkest chapter of our history and must be left there.”

There was shock and outrage in Italy on Tuesday days after hundreds of people gave a fascist salute at a rally in Rome, sparking widespread condemnation and calls for the country’s far-right leader to take action.

A video circulating online shows hundreds of people making the banned salute at an event Sunday commemorating the killing of three neo-fascist youths in the Italian capital in 1978.

The Acca Larentia killings, as they’re known, are marked annually, but this year’s public display and an apparent lack of police intervention has prompted criticism from opposition lawmakers.

The people in the video stand in at least a dozen rows and, when prompted by a voice shouting outside the frame, raise their right arms in a salute that dates to the regime of Benito Mussolini, Italy’s fascist dictator.

They appear to shout “present” three times in unison in response to someone yelling: “For all fallen comrades,” a typical rallying cry at neo-fascist events, according to a Reuters translation.

Under Italy’s post-World War II legislation, use of fascist symbolism, including the straight-armed salute, is banned.

<https://brownstone.org/articles/are-there-us-quarantine-camps-right-now/>

Are There US Quarantine Camps Right Now?

Two years ago, attorney and Brownstone Fellow Bobbie Anne Flower Cox took note of the New York State executive order to permit the building and use of quarantine camps. The litigation against it is still in process. We might have supposed it was an outlying case. That, sadly, is not true.

It turns out that the first federal quarantine camp (not called that of course) constructed in one hundred years (since the Great War’s round up of Germans on US soil) was completed in January 2020 in Omaha, Nebraska. It was immediately used to house Americans kidnapped from their vacations from aboard the Diamond Princess cruise liner.

I first read about this in a July 26, 2021 article in the New York Times.

A shiny new federal quarantine facility in Omaha — the first constructed in the United States in more than a century — was finished in January 2020, just in time to receive 15 American passengers from the coronavirus-infested Diamond Princess cruise ship.

It’s not a big facility but it was enough to give the whole idea a big kickoff. That happened immediately upon its opening. How long would this have taken to construct? Let’s say it was four or five months. That means it would have to be approved sometime around September 2019, when it is plausible that some US officials were made aware of a lab leak from the Wuhan lab. Figuring it was a bioweapon or something like it, and with “germ games” ongoing, the plan might have been to use this one and build more.

We don’t know for sure.

f that is true, it really does adjust the timeline. The Wuhan junket in which US and UK officials discovered from China's lockdowns that this was an effective plan for disease control might have just been optics. The idea of quarantines and possibly lockdowns was already in the works. That's speculation but plausible.

"Our state-of-the-art facilities include the 20-bed National Quarantine Unit, the nation's only federal quarantine unit, and a six-bed simulated biocontainment unit for advanced experiential training – the National Biocontainment Training Center," says the website. "This high-fidelity simulation center includes a mock lab and autoclave."

The day before US lockdowns were announced at a Trump press conference, Esquire wrote a celebratory article on the facility. Headline: "Esquire was granted exclusive access to the nation's only federal quarantine and biocontainment center in Nebraska. We met the people who work there, and they are as extraordinary—and as courageous—as you think they are."

"The U.S. Department of Defense selected Omaha and four other sites; the announcement was made Wednesday by Nebraska's congressional delegation. The project will be led by the Department of Defense in coordination with the Department of Health and Human Services, other partner agencies include the Veterans Administration, Department of Homeland Security, and Department of Transportation."

That's a lot of deep state action right there.

Where are these other sites? So far as we can tell, they are Washington State (with some controversy), Orange County, California ("Health Center"), Tennessee, and one other we cannot find, but it surely includes New York State by now. No city government would likely turn down a federal contract worth millions and billions.
