The Coming “Polycrisis” Will Shock The World

Globalists are speaking of a coming onslaught of crises to overwhelm the world. Naturally, global government will be the "solution." Humanity can and must expose and resist the evil agenda.

The Deep State intends to overwhelm humanity with mass migration, more war, economic turmoil, civil unrest, pandemics, and more. This phenomenon that the United Nations has been preparing for is what the World Economic Forum calls the “polycrisis.”

Why Are Chinese Cargo Planes Flying into Iran, and What Are They Carrying?

Russia has warned the United States not to assist Israel in its strikes against Iran’s nuclear facilities or ballistic missile launchers. Because if there’s anything Vladimir Putin hates to see, it’s military aggression crossing international borders, right?

However, Russia has also made clear it’s not willing to do much to help Iran beyond issue statements. (Hey, how about those Russian-made air defense systems deployed by Iran, huh? You can probably find better stuff on Temu.)

Speaking of Chinese exports, there’s a strange report of the Chinese sending something to Iran after the conflict began.

A day after Israel attacked Iran on Friday, a cargo plane took off from China. The next day, a second plane departed from a coastal city. Then on Monday, yet another departed, this time from Shanghai – three flights in three days.

Data showed that on each flight, the plane flew westward along northern China, crossing into Kazakhstan, then south into Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan – and then falling off the radar as it neared Iran.

To add to the mystery, flight plans indicated a final destination of Luxembourg, but the aircraft appeared to have never flown near European skies.

...Aviation experts have noted that the type of plane used, Boeing 747 freighters, are commonly used for transporting military equipment and weapons, and hired to fly government contract orders.

Climate change helped fuel heavy rains that caused Hill Country floods, experts say

Warming ocean temperatures and warmer air mean there's more water vapor in the atmosphere to fuel extreme downpours like those that struck Texas during the July 4 weekend.

Heavy rains over the weekend that pushed the Guadalupe River in Texas' Hill Country to its second-highest height on record had by Tuesday resulted in more than 100 reported deaths, including 27 children and counselors from Camp Mystic. But as search and rescue teams and volunteers sweep the banks of the river for missing people, the number of confirmed deaths is expected to grow.

Climate scientists said the torrential downpours on July 4 exemplify the devastating outcomes of weather intensified by a warming atmosphere. These disasters, they said, will become more frequent as people around the world continue to burn fossil fuels and heat the planet.

"This is not a one-off anymore," said Claudia Benitez-Nelson, a climate scientist at the University of South Carolina. Extreme rainfall events are increasing across the U.S. as temperatures rise, she said.

I hope Lee Zeldin, upcoming administrator of EPA, will halt all ongoing geoengineering activities, including weather modification, cloud seeding, and solar radiation management over our airspace.

Almost daily, our skies are covered with chemicals through stratospheric aerosol injection (SAI), which aims to dim solar radiation. This process involves spraying substances like aluminum, barium, strontium salts, and various nanoparticles, including graphene oxide. The stated goal of SAI is to deflect solar rays to mitigate climate change, but this theory remains largely untested and potentially harmful. Evidence suggests that deflecting solar radiation may actually contribute to heating the upper troposphere, rather than cooling it.

The fallout from these operations poses severe risks to our environment and public health. Numerous studies have linked aluminum exposure to mental health issues and cognitive decline, with diseases such as Alzheimer's and breast cancer documented as consequences of such exposure.

As part of this plan, the District may administer Ultra Low Volume (ULV) treatments by using backpack foggers, hand sprayers, truck-mounted foggers or aircraft, in and around areas where virus activity has been detected. Each fogging unit is calibrated to ensure the correct amount of product is applied for each treatment area. All products are registered with the California Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and are applied by trained and state-certified technicians. Adulticides are chemicals that quickly reduce adult mosquito populations. Larvicides target mosquitoes developing in the water.

#1 Why were Jeffery Epstein and Ghislaine Maxwell arrested and charged with operating an enormous sex trafficking ring that supposedly involved thousands of clients if no such clients ever existed?

#2 Why did U.S. Attorney General Pam Bondi tell Fox News in February that Epstein's client list was "sitting on my desk right now to review" if no such client list ever existed?

#4 When Bondi claimed that the Epstein flight logs would "make you sick" in March, what did she mean by that?

Trump's BBB just passed by Senate will massively expand the digital biometric surveillance state for years to come

Bill allocates billions for digital tracking systems nationwide, mostly under the guise of 'border security.' All major state and federal highways will be monitored 24/7 in real time.

The website Biometric Update, which reports on all things digital and biometric, posted an article on June 30 that points out how President Trump's BBB will expand the digital surveillance state exponentially and place the U.S. on an irreversible course toward a biometric slave state that tracks the movement of everyone, everywhere.

Army recruits officers from Meta, OpenAI and Palantir to serve in new detachment

Executives from high-tech firms Meta, OpenAI and Palantir are joining the Army Reserve at the rank of lieutenant colonel to serve in Detachment 201, a new “Executive Innovation Corps,” the service announced Friday.

On Friday, the service is set to swear-in Meta’s chief technology officer Andrew Bosworth, OpenAI’s chief product officer Kevin Weil, Palantir’s CTO Shyam Sankar and Bob McGrew, an advisor at Thinking Machines Lab who was previously OpenAI’s chief research officer.

Palantir is a major provider of software tools for the DOD — including the Maven Smart System — and is also developing hardware, such as the Army’s AI-enabled TITAN vehicle.

“Det. 201 is an effort to recruit senior tech executives to serve part-time in the Army Reserve as senior advisors. In this role they will work on targeted projects to help guide rapid and scalable tech solutions to complex problems. By bringing private-sector know-how into uniform, Det. 201 is supercharging efforts like the Army Transformation Initiative, which aims to make the force leaner, smarter, and more lethal,” the service stated in Friday’s press release.
