Sixteen people now dead, including one child, following Bondi Beach terror attack - as traumatised witnesses reveal how civilians had to step in for 'underprepared' police

The death toll from the Bondi Beach massacre has risen to 16 overnight, and includes a child, marking one of the darkest days in the country's history.

Australia's most iconic tourist destination was rocked by a mass shooting on Sunday as two men stood on a pedestrian footbridge and opened fire into crowds of locals, holidaymakers and families.

Some had been there to celebrate Hanukkah, the Jewish Festival of Light, which police believed was the intended target of the massacre that has been officially designated a terrorist attack.

Two antisemitic attacks in 24 hours target Jews in New York City

Two separate assaults on visibly Jewish New Yorkers deepen concern amid rising hate incidents

Two violent antisemitic attacks occurred in Brooklyn within a 24-hour period, intensifying concerns over rising hate crimes against visibly Jewish New Yorkers. Police are investigating both incidents, which targeted Jewish men in Crown Heights and on a New York City subway line following Hanukkah activities.

In the first incident, a Jewish man was stabbed late Tuesday night on Kingston Avenue in Crown Heights, a neighborhood with a large Orthodox Jewish population. According to authorities, the victim was attacked by an unknown assailant who pulled a knife, stabbed him several times, and shouted antisemitic slurs during the assault. The victim was taken to the hospital with non-life-threatening injuries, police said.

MIT professor dies after being shot in home

A professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was fatally shot at his home on Gibbs Street in Brookline around nine p.m. Monday night. He died Tuesday morning at the hospital, according to the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office.

47-year-old Nuno Loureiro was the Director of the University's Plasma Science and Fusion Center and a faculty member in the Nuclear Science and Engineering Department at MIT.

Neighbors comment on his death saying that he had a nice, young family and lived at the residence for some time.

Police were seen investigating at his home late Monday night. One neighbor stating, "It was quiet. Taped off. No one said anything. Still to today still no idea if the shooter is at large."

World-renowned MIT nuclear researcher was assassinated in his home in targeted attack by Iranian operative, Israel says

A world-renowned MIT nuclear science professor who was murdered in his home may have been assassinated by an Iranian operative, Israeli officials said.

Married father-of-three Nuno F.G. Loureiro, 47, was gunned down in the leafy Boston suburb of Brookline at 8.30pm on Monday by an unknown shooter who is still on the loose.

Loureiro specialized in nuclear science, engineering and physics and he had previously spoken out in favor of Israel, a mortal enemy of Iran.

Now, Israeli officials have said Iranian operatives targeted the leading nuclear fusion researcher, according to the Jerusalem Post.

No further information on this theory was given, and it has not been corroborated at this stage by any investigative or law enforcement authorities in the US.

"This time I will direct my condemnations at myself and my people for watching what is happening to one part of our body [i.e., to the Palestinians in Gaza] without coming to its aid... instead of rebelling against our wretched reality on every level and standing bare-chested, as one, against the genocidal gang...

"Sadly, the leaders of the occupation did not learn a lesson... and forgot the Holocaust that almost exterminated them to the root and to the very last one by eliminating six million Jews, according to their own narrative...

"Oh [Jews], enemies of liberty and world peace, remember that in 1939 Adolf Hitler became convinced that you were the cause of the world's problems. In his famous speech of January 30 that year, he called to purge Europe of you so that the world could enjoy peace... He put this theory into practice in 1941, when he invaded the Soviet Union and declared war on America. His propaganda chief, Josef Goebbels, promoted this vision by proclaiming, after the Munich Crisis (Kristallnacht) [sic], that the Jews would be 'crushed by the wheels of history' because they were untermenschen, i.e., subhuman, as he put it.[3]

"Today humanity has realized that you are a threat to the world's peace and security, and the countdown to your end – which will be imminent, Allah willing – has already begun. Note in your diaries today, not tomorrow, that by the end of the first third of this century, [sometime] between 2025 and 2033, you will be nothing but history that future generations will talk about. Take into consideration that this time the world will not take pity on you, and that, when its anger boils over, not one of you will be left upon the earth. Trump's veto-power, or the veto-power of whoever succeeds him, will not avail you.

"Also note in your diaries that Hitler was asked before he disappeared why he had never completed the [task of] exterminating you, if he believed you were the cause of all the world's problems. His answer, as people understood it, was that he had left some of you [alive] in order to prove to the world that his actions were a punishment you deserved, and did not stem from antisemitism but from your social conduct and the fact that you treated others as untermenschen, or goyim, to use your terminology.

LA Members of Pro-Palestinian Group Arrested in New Year's Eve ICE Bomb Plot

"Targeting five separate locations across Los Angeles"

LA has one of the worst radical contingents in the country. And they've been emboldened by their ties to Mayor Karen Bass, who occasionally offers toothless condemnations, but does nothing more, and by the LA County Board of Supervisors, which is openly supportive of them and their attacks on synagogues, universities and private property.

Tie that in with the mainstreaming of the anti-ICE movement by the Democrats and you have a ticking time bomb. Literally.

FBI Director Kash Patel said on Monday that the bureau arrested five members of a pro-Palestinian extremist group who were plotting bombing attacks in Los Angeles and New Orleans on New Year's Eve.

"The subjects self-identified as members of a radical offshoot of the Turtle Island Liberation Front, an extremist group motivated by pro-Palestinian, anti-law-enforcement and anti-government ideology," Patel wrote.

"They were allegedly planning coordinated IED bombing attacks on New Year's Eve, targeting five separate locations across Los Angeles," Patel stated. "In the days since, the FBI in New Orleans arrested an additional fifth individual believed to be linked to this radical Turtle Island Liberation Front subgroup, also allegedly planning a separate violent attack."

Patel described the New Year's Eve terrorist threat as "credible" and "imminent."

The New Orleans-based member of the group was arrested for allegedly plotting a separate attack.

4 days after Bondi Beach attack, Australian police conduct dramatic operation as intel suggests possible new plot

Australian police carried out a dramatic operation in a Sydney suburb on Thursday, with heavily armed officers in tactical gear reportedly ramming a car and at least briefly detaining several men amid the ongoing investigation into the Sunday terror attack on a Jewish holiday gathering at the city's Bondi Beach.

The New South Wales state police force said in a statement that two cars were intercepted by tactical operations officers responding "to information received that a violent act was possibly being planned."

Georgia Woman Attacked With 'Corrosive' Chemical After Christmas Event, Suffers Third-Degree Burns

A Georgia woman is recovering in the hospital after being attacked with an unknown chemical substance (probably acid) that left her with third-degree burns.

Ashley Wasielewski, 46, was walking in Forsyth Park in Savannah after attending a Christmas program at a nearby church when she was approached from behind by a stranger who poured a 'corrosive liquid' over her head, according to friends and family. Wasielewski reportedly let out a 'blood-curdling scream' as the chemical burned her skin, ate through her clothing, and melted her car's key fob that was in her pocket, the NY Post reports.

No arrests have been made in the case, however local police are working with the FBI to locate the individual below, wearing blue jeans and a dark hooded Bugs Bunny hoodie

‘Fear has killed our dream’: Avner’s Bakery prepares to close after two years of threats

Avner’s Bakery, the popular Jewish bagel shop in Sydney’s Surry Hills, is preparing to close its doors, citing sustained antisemitic harassment and escalating safety concerns following the recent violence in Bondi.

Owner Ed Halmagyi confirmed the decision in a message to supporters, describing it as heartbreaking but unavoidable after nearly two years of abuse and threats linked to the business’s identity as a publicly Jewish establishment.

The Boast That Should Alarm America: Newsom's Trans Agenda And The Road To 2028

Governor Gavin Newsom did not whisper his intentions. He did not hedge. He did not soften the edges. On The Ezra Klein Show earlier this month, Newsom made it unmistakably clear that his record on transgender policy is not a footnote--it is a point of pride. "I want to see trans kids," he said. "I have a trans godson. There's no governor that signed more pro-trans legislation than I have, and no one's been a stronger advocate for the LGBTQ community."

That statement should be treated not as a moment of personal reflection, but as a warning shot. Newsom is widely viewed as the overwhelming favorite for the Democratic nomination in 2028, and this was not an accidental remark. It was a preview. If California has been a laboratory for progressive social policy, Newsom is now signaling that he intends to export the model nationwide.
