“Character is What you are in the dark.” -Dwight L. Moody

“The happiest people don’t necessarily have the best of everything. They just make the best of everything.”
-Unknown

A story is told of identical twins, one a hope-filled optimist who often said, “Everything is coming up roses!” The other twin was a sad and hopeless pessimist who continually expected the worst to happen. The concerned parents of the twins took them to a psychologist in hopes he might be able to help them balance their personalities.

The psychologist suggested that on the twins’ next birthday the parents put them in separate rooms to open their gifts. “Give the pessimist the best toys you can afford,” the psychologist said, “and give the optimist a box of manure.” The parents did as he said.

When they peeked in on the pessimistic twin, they heard him audibly complaining, “I don’t like the color of this toy... I’ll bet this toy will break... I don’t like to play this game... I know someone who has a bigger toy than this.”

Tiptoeing across the corridor, the parents peeked in and saw their optimistic son gleefully throwing manure up in the air. He was giggling as he said, “You can’t fool me! Where there’s this much manure, there’s gotta be a pony!”

How are you looking at life today? As an accident waiting to happen, or a blessing about to be received?

“...I have learned in whatever situation I am to be content. I know how to be brought low, and I know how to abound. In any and every circumstance, I have learned the secret of facing plenty and hunger, abundance and need. I can do all things through him who strengthens me.” (Philippians 4:11b-13)
