

Psalm 73:1-28:

Pain and Deconstruction

DECONSTRUCTION

DEFENDING THE FAITH AND CONFRONTING YOUR DOUBTS

TAKE NOTE

Deconstruction isn't always driven by destructive desires

The author of this Psalm expresses a level of self-awareness and recognizes his envy. Is it easy for you to be this self-aware? Also, how have you wrestled with envy?

Has there been times your theology doesn't always match your experiences? (Sovereign God vs. present suffering)

Describe a time you desired immediate justice for others but mercy for yourself?

WORD OF THE WEEK

Pain

When you experience suffering, have you felt closer or further from God? What did you learn about yourself after going through a season of suffering?

THINK ABOUT IT...

What are some reasons why God allows pain and suffering? Does knowing this help you endure?
