

ODYSSEY

You call me to a quiet place
I stand in solitude
My odyssey is an unwritten novel
I give the ink and quill to You.

Whatever I am in this moment
Or plans you have for me
I abandon all selfish ambition
I will step into my destiny.

I understand the journey's footsteps
No rose petals at my feet
Valleys and mountains I will traverse
As my shepherd guideith me.

My traveling companions may be few
Encouraging along the way
I'll honor them for who they are
Knowing they'll all soon pass away.

And when this journey has concluded
With a victory and crown
My true adventure it's just beginning
Between new covers my story's bound.
