

1 CORINTHIANS 7:6-9; 29-35

1 CORINTHIANS 7:6-9; 29-35

PASTOR JOSH ROLLINS

PASTOR JOSH ROLLINS

JUNE 7, 2026

JUNE 7, 2026

THE REALITY

THE REALITY

_____ has made a lot of _____
about singles.

_____ has made a lot of _____
about singles.

THE TENSION

THE TENSION

_____ has made a lot of _____
about singles, too.

_____ has made a lot of _____
about singles, too.

THE TRUTH

THE TRUTH

Singleness isn't a _____,
it's a _____.

Singleness isn't a _____,
it's a _____.

THE TEXT

THE TEXT

Singleness is a _____,
not a _____. (vv. 6-7)

Singleness is a _____,
not a _____.

_____ is _____
and _____ is _____. (vv. 8-9)

_____ is _____
and _____ is _____.

Singleness creates _____
for _____. (vv. 29-35)

Singleness creates _____
for _____.

THE RESPONSE

THE RESPONSE

_____ your _____.
_____ your _____.
_____ your _____ on _____.

_____ your _____.
_____ your _____.
_____ your _____ on _____.

What assumptions has our culture made about marriage and singleness? How have those assumptions shaped the way Christians think about relationships and identity?

Paul calls both marriage and singleness “gifts from God” (1 Corinthians 7:7). Why is it difficult for many people to genuinely believe that?

Paul says desire is real and marriage is good (vv. 8–9). How can the church speak honestly about longing and loneliness without treating singleness like a problem to solve?

In verses 29–31, Paul reminds believers that “the present form of this world is passing away.” How should an eternal perspective reshape the way we think about relationships, success, and fulfillment?

Paul connects singleness with “undivided devotion to the Lord” (vv. 32–35). What distractions most often pull your attention away from wholehearted devotion to Jesus?

Whether married or single, what would it look like for you to stop treating this season of life like a waiting room and start living on mission right now?

What assumptions has our culture made about marriage and singleness? How have those assumptions shaped the way Christians think about relationships and identity?

Paul calls both marriage and singleness “gifts from God” (1 Corinthians 7:7). Why is it difficult for many people to genuinely believe that?

Paul says desire is real and marriage is good (vv. 8–9). How can the church speak honestly about longing and loneliness without treating singleness like a problem to solve?

In verses 29–31, Paul reminds believers that “the present form of this world is passing away.” How should an eternal perspective reshape the way we think about relationships, success, and fulfillment?

Paul connects singleness with “undivided devotion to the Lord” (vv. 32–35). What distractions most often pull your attention away from wholehearted devotion to Jesus?

Whether married or single, what would it look like for you to stop treating this season of life like a waiting room and start living on mission right now?